Synergy participants selected

Thirty members of the Illinois library community have been selected for the 2006 Synergy: The Illinois Library Leadership Initiative. The first of three, three-day Synergy events will be held March 28-30 at Starved Rock Lodge and Conference Center in Utica. The other two seminars will be held in Grafton and Lisle later this year.

Synergy is the statewide library community’s proactive movement to recruit and nurture future Illinois library leaders. The State Library and the Illinois Library Association are sponsors of the program.

2006 Synergy participants

- Mary G. Adamowski, Orland Park Public Library
- Bryan A. Blank, Elmhurst Public Library
- Susan A. Bochenski, Metropolitan Library System
- Loretta L. Broomfield, Park Forest Public Library
- Tara Caldara, Zion-Benton Public Library District
- Tina L. Carter, Chicago Public Library, Dr. George C. Hall Branch
- Debra J. Comisky, U of I Mortenson Center/International Library Programs
- Beth S. Cosenza, Northern Illinois University
- Carolyn L. Corbell, University of St. Francis Library
- LuAnn DeGree, Benedictine University Library
- Jennifer Grubb, Fox River Grove Memorial Library
- Carol Galyer, Columbia College Chicago Library
- Kathleen Hall, Park Ridge Public Library
- Monica P. Hinde, Warren-Newport Public Library
- Anna M. Hughes, Glen Ellyn Community Library
- Kristine Kennis, Schaumburg Township District Library
- Catherine A. Lemmer, Galesburg Public Library
- Tara Mckernan, Homer Township Public Library District
- Amanda D. McKeown, Lincoln Trail Libraries System
- Stephanie A. Neitzke-Schiller, Aces C182 K77
- Alaines Alice Moore, Paul V. Galvin Library, Illinois Institute of Technology
- Cindy Moriarity, Brookfield Public Library
- Jennifer Philipp-Bucher, Skokie Public Library
- Scott E. Piletik, Decatur Public Library
- Carolyn R. Roys, Lake Park High School Dist. 106
- Laura M. Sabin, Rockford Public Library
- Ann M. Stefani, Indian Prairie Public Library District
- Morgan Thomas, Carl Foundation Hospital Library, Lurie College of Surgery
- Meredith Willett, Prairie Area Library System

More than 600 enthusiastic library advocates from across the state took part in Illinois Library Day festivities in Springfield on Wednesday, March 1. Many participants proclaimed the event the best in years, with twice as many attendees as in recent years.

The highlight of the day was a march from the new Lincoln Presidential Library & Museum to the Capitol Building for a rally. Marchers chanted slogans and displayed “I Love Libraries” umbrellas while walking behind a large “I Love Libraries” banner.

“You and I know that our libraries remain the best, most reliable source of information available to the citizens of this state,” said Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White as he addressed the crowd in front of the State Capitol. “Librarians are highly trained, caring, and committed men and women. They provide the important personal and professional touch that no search engine can ever provide. Our libraries are the cornerstones of our communities. They enhance civic pride and enrich the lives of those who use them. We must keep our libraries strong to ensure a viable informational and educational resource now and into the future.”

Before and after the rally, participants visited with their local lawmakers at the Capitol. Participants found widespread support among their state senators and representatives for increased funding for libraries. Library Day organizers also arranged continuing education sessions for school librarians and library trustees throughout the day.

Thanks to everyone who made this year’s Illinois Library Day a success.

In addition to Secretary White, other speakers included State Library Director Anne Craig; Keith Fiel, executive director, American Library Association; Richard Norton Smith, former executive director, Lincoln Presidential Library & Museum; Dianne Harmon, president, Illinois Library Association; Shirley May Byrnes, president, Illinois Library System Directors Organization; Susan Chengworth, president, Illinois Chapter of the Special Libraries Association; Leslie Fornse, president, Illinois School Library Media Association; and Mary Munroe, chair of the Consortium of Academic and Research Libraries in Illinois. Dennis Danowski, director of the Macomb Public Library, served as master of ceremonies.

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White addressed Library Day participants at a rally in front of the State Capitol.
Talking Book program celebrates 75 years

The Illinois State Library’s Talking Book and Braille Service (TBBS) hosted an open house at its Springfield headquarters in March to mark the 75th anniversary of free library services for the blind and physically disabled.

The federal Pratt-Smoot Act enacted on March 3, 1931, established free library services for blind adults under the National Library Service (NLS) for the Blind and Physically Handicapped in the Library of Congress. Originally, 19 libraries were created nationwide to serve the blind, including one in Chicago. The Network of Illinois Libraries serving the print-impaired was created in 1966 to be administered by the Illinois State Library. The Illinois network consists of the TBBS regional library in Springfield and four local talking book centers: Southern Illinois Talking Book Center, Carterville; Mid-Illinois Talking Book Center, East Peoria; Voices of Vision Talking Book Center, Geneva; and Chicago Public Library Talking Book Center, Harold Washington Library Center.

“I am honored to congratulate the NLS on providing 75 years of outstanding service,” said Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White. “More than 27,000 Illinoisans use the wide variety of materials provided by our network of libraries serving the blind and physically disabled. “Print-disabled individuals can choose from a collection of more than 400,000 items, ranging from audio books and Braille materials to descriptive videos and magazines. “I am proud that Illinois has such a strong, cooperative network of libraries serving the blind and physically disabled.”

For more information or to register for the program, call TBBS at 800-665-5576, opt. 6, or visit www.cyberdriveillinois.com.

The directors of Illinois’ Talking Book Centers celebrated 75 years of service. Left to right are: Karen Odean, Voices of Vision TBC, Carbondale; Diana Bradley Susman, Southern Illinois TBC, Carterville; Sharon Buda, Illinois State Library TBS, Springfield; Debbie Taylor, Chicago Public Library TBC, and Karen Stott Borchic, Mid-Illinois TBC, East Peoria.

Illinois Digital Archives gets update

The Illinois Digital Archives (IDA) has been updated and is now powered by CONTENTdm digital collection management software. This is a significant change for two reasons: the search engine is more powerful than the one used in the original version, and many full-text items have undergone optical character recognition, making them keyword searchable.

State Library staff is still in the process of converting a few collections from the old IDA, including old Illinois Blue Books. Until the conversion is complete, these collections may be accessed by clicking the link at the bottom of the new IDA home page at www.finditillinois.org.

PNG adds five new sites

Illinois public libraries in Freeport, Joliet, Kankakee, Richton Park and Sparta have been selected to serve as new hosts for Project Next Generation, Secretary of State Jesse White’s innovative mentoring program for junior high-age students at Illinois public libraries.

“I am delighted to welcome these public libraries into the growing Project Next Generation family,” said Secretary White. “With the addition of these new sites, we now have programs operating in 25 public libraries throughout the state.”

Program mentors teach students how to use state-of-the-art technology provided through a grant from the Illinois State Library. At each site, the number of students is limited to between 10 and 12 to maintain an optimum ratio of one mentor per three or four students. Though a statewide curriculum has been developed to maintain program consistency, individual sites are given flexibility to evolve based on individual student needs.

“Project Next Generation is doing what I hoped it would do,” said Secretary White. “Kids are having fun and developing technological skills that will serve them well for the rest of their lives. Caring adult mentors are providing guidance and serving as positive role models for participants, setting them on the path to success. And our public libraries are proving to be the perfect environment for such interaction to take place.”

The new sites join 20 other PNG programs operating at public libraries in Beardstown, Bensenville, Bloomington, Cahokia, Carbondale, Centralia, Champaign, Danville, Decatur, Des Plaines, Dixon, Elmhurst Park, Harrisburg, Effingham, Macomb, Bethany, Loves Park, Peoria, Quincy and Springfield.

Illinois Authors Book Fair to coincide with Family Reading Night

Big changes are in store for this year’s Illinois Authors Book Fair. In recent years, the book fair was held in March and consisted of a fund-raising dinner with Illinois authors on a Friday evening followed by the book fair on Saturday.

This year’s festivities will take place in November and begin a day earlier, coinciding with Family Reading Night, Thursday, Nov. 16, a statewide celebration encouraging families to read together. Reading programs will be held at the State Library for pre-kindergarten to high school students and their families.

On Friday, Nov. 17, presentations will be held throughout the day with participating Book Fair authors. A coffeehouse-style reception on Friday evening will feature the author of a book selected for the Springfield area’s “Together We Read” program. This popular reading program, which is held in many cities across the nation, encourages residents to read the same book.

On Friday evening, organizers hope to host a movie screening of a film adapted from a book, with the author hosting a discussion about the book prior to the film and signing books after the movie. All events are free and open to the public.

On Friday, Sept. 8, a murder mystery dinner theater will be held at the State Library to raise funds for the Book Fair. The cost for the event is $50.

Details about Book Fair events will be available in upcoming issues of Insight. For more information, contact Bonnie Mathis at 217-558-2065 or bmatheis@ilsos.net.

Per capita grants awarded

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White awarded more than $15.5 million in FY2006 per capita grants to Illinois public and school libraries. Nearly $14.2 million was shared by 630 public libraries, allocated at a rate of $1.23 per resident. An additional 11 public libraries with low library tax bases received equalization aid grants to ensure a minimum level of funding for library services.

School library per capita grants totaling nearly $1.4 million were awarded to 716 school districts. The grants help provide library services to nearly 2 million students in more than 3,300 Illinois school libraries. The grants were allocated based on a $0.72 per student rate and are available to tax-supported public school districts that are members of one Illinois’ regional library systems.

Illinois Digital Archives

The Illinois Digital Archives (IDA) has been updated and is now powered by CONTENTdm digital collection management software. This is a significant change for two reasons: the search engine is more powerful than the one used in the original version, and many full-text items have undergone optical character recognition, making them keyword searchable.

State Library staff is still in the process of converting a few collections from the old IDA, including old Illinois Blue Books. Until the conversion is complete, these collections may be accessed by clicking the link at the bottom of the new IDA home page at www.finditillinois.org.

For more information or to register for the program, call TBBS at 800-665-5576, opt. 6, or visit www.cyberdriveillinois.com.

The directors of Illinois’ Talking Book Centers celebrated 75 years of service. Left to right are: Karen Odean, Voices of Vision TBC, Carbondale; Diana Bradley Susman, Southern Illinois TBC, Carterville; Sharon Buda, Illinois State Library TBS, Springfield; Debbie Taylor, Chicago Public Library TBC, and Karen Stott Borchic, Mid-Illinois TBC, East Peoria.

Illinois Digital Archives gets update

The Illinois Digital Archives (IDA) has been updated and is now powered by CONTENTdm digital collection management software. This is a significant change for two reasons: the search engine is more powerful than the one used in the original version, and many full-text items have undergone optical character recognition, making them keyword searchable.

State Library staff is still in the process of converting a few collections from the old IDA, including old Illinois Blue Books. Until the conversion is complete, these collections may be accessed by clicking the link at the bottom of the new IDA home page at www.finditillinois.org.

PNG adds five new sites

Illinois public libraries in Freeport, Joliet, Kankakee, Richton Park and Sparta have been selected to serve as new hosts for Project Next Generation, Secretary of State Jesse White’s innovative mentoring program for junior high-age students at Illinois public libraries.

“I am delighted to welcome these public libraries into the growing Project Next Generation family,” said Secretary White. “With the addition of these new sites, we now have programs operating in 25 public libraries throughout the state.”

Program mentors teach students how to use state-of-the-art technology provided through a grant from the Illinois State Library. At each site, the number of students is limited to between 10 and 12 to maintain an optimum ratio of one mentor per three or four students. Though a statewide curriculum has been developed to maintain program consistency, individual sites are given flexibility to evolve based on individual student needs.

“Project Next Generation is doing what I hoped it would do,” said Secretary White. “Kids are having fun and developing technological skills that will serve them well for the rest of their lives. Caring adult mentors are providing guidance and serving as positive role models for participants, setting them on the path to success. And our public libraries are proving to be the perfect environment for such interaction to take place.”

The new sites join 20 other PNG programs operating at public libraries in Beardstown, Bensenville, Bloomington, Cahokia, Carbondale, Centralia, Champaign, Danville, Decatur, Des Plaines, Dixon, Elmhurst Park, Harrisburg, Effingham, Macomb, Bethany, Loves Park, Peoria, Quincy and Springfield.

Illinois Authors Book Fair to coincide with Family Reading Night

Big changes are in store for this year’s Illinois Authors Book Fair. In recent years, the book fair was held in March and consisted of a fund-raising dinner with Illinois authors on a Friday evening followed by the book fair on Saturday.

This year’s festivities will take place in November and begin a day earlier, coinciding with Family Reading Night, Thursday, Nov. 16, a statewide celebration encouraging families to read together. Reading programs will be held at the State Library for pre-kindergarten to high school students and their families.

On Friday, Nov. 17, presentations will be held throughout the day with participating Book Fair authors. A coffeehouse-style reception on Friday evening will feature the author of a book selected for the Springfield area’s “Together We Read” program. This popular reading program, which is held in many cities across the nation, encourages residents to read the same book.

On Friday evening, organizers hope to host a movie screening of a film adapted from a book, with the author hosting a discussion about the book prior to the film and signing books after the movie. All events are free and open to the public.

On Friday, Sept. 8, a murder mystery dinner theater will be held at the State Library to raise funds for the Book Fair. The cost for the event is $50.

Details about Book Fair events will be available in upcoming issues of Insight. For more information, contact Bonnie Mathis at 217-558-2065 or bmatheis@ilsos.net.

Per capita grants awarded

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White awarded more than $15.5 million in FY2006 per capita grants to Illinois public and school libraries. Nearly $14.2 million was shared by 630 public libraries, allocated at a rate of $1.23 per resident. An additional 11 public libraries with low library tax bases received equalization aid grants to ensure a minimum level of funding for library services.

School library per capita grants totaling nearly $1.4 million were awarded to 716 school districts. The grants help provide library services to nearly 2 million students in more than 3,300 Illinois school libraries. The grants were allocated based on a $0.72 per student rate and are available to tax-supported public school districts that are members of one Illinois’ regional library systems.

Illinois Digital Archives

The Illinois Digital Archives (IDA) has been updated and is now powered by CONTENTdm digital collection management software. This is a significant change for two reasons: the search engine is more powerful than the one used in the original version, and many full-text items have undergone optical character recognition, making them keyword searchable.

State Library staff is still in the process of converting a few collections from the old IDA, including old Illinois Blue Books. Until the conversion is complete, these collections may be accessed by clicking the link at the bottom of the new IDA home page at www.finditillinois.org.

For more information or to register for the program, call TBBS at 800-665-5576, opt. 6, or visit www.cyberdriveillinois.com.
Talking Book program celebrates 75 years

The Illinois State Library’s Talking Book and Braille Service (TBBS) hosted an open house at its Springfield headquarters in March to mark the 75th anniversary of free library services for the blind and physically disabled.

The federal Pratt-Smoot Act enacted on March 3, 1931, established free library services for blind adults under the National Library Service (NLS) for the Blind and Physically Handicapped in the Library of Congress. Originally, 19 libraries were created nationwide to serve the blind, including one in Chicago. The Network of Illinois Libraries serving the print-impaired was created in 1966 to be administered by the Illinois State Library. The Illinois network consists of the TBBS regional library in Springfield and four local talking book centers: Southern Illinois Talking Book Center, Carterville; Mid-Illinois Talking Book Center, East Peoria; Voices of Vision Talking Book Center, Geneva; and Chicago Public Library Talking Book Center, Harold Washington Library Center.

"I am honored to congratulate the NLS on providing 75 years of outstanding service," said Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White. "More than 27,000 Illinoisans use the wide variety of materials provided by our network of libraries serving the blind and physically disabled." Print-disabled individuals can choose from a collection of more than 400,000 items, ranging from audio books and Braille materials to descriptive videos and magazines. "I am proud that Illinois has such a strong, cooperative network of libraries serving the blind and physically disabled."

Illinois Digital Archives gets update

The Illinois Digital Archives (IDA) has been updated and is now powered by CONTENTdm digital collection management software. This is a significant change for two reasons: the search engine is more powerful than the one used in the original version, and many full-text items have undergone optical character recognition, making them keyword searchable.

State Library staff is still in the process of converting a few collections from the old IDA, including old Illinois Blue Books. Until the conversion is complete, these collections may be accessed by clicking the link at the bottom of the new IDA home page at www.finditillinois.org.

Illinois Authors Book Fair to coincide with Family Reading Night

Big changes are in store for this year’s Illinois Authors Book Fair. In recent years, the book fair was held in March and consisted of a fund-raising dinner with Illinois authors on a Friday evening followed by the book fair on Saturday.

This year’s festivities will take place in November and begin a day earlier, coinciding with Family Reading Night. Thursday, Nov. 16, a statewide celebration encouraging families to read together. Reading programs will be held at the State Library for pre-kindergarten to high school students and their families.

On Friday, Nov. 17, presentations will be held throughout the day with participating Book Fair authors. A coffeehouse-style reception on Friday evening will feature the author of a book selected for the Springfield area’s “Together We Read” program. This popular reading program, which is held in many cities across the nation, encourages residents to read the same book.

The Book Fair itself will be Saturday, Nov. 18, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. More than 30 Illinois authors will conduct workshops and sign books for patrons. On Saturday evening, organizers hope to host a movie screening of a film adapted from a book, with the author hosting a discussion about the book prior to the film and signing books after the movie. All events are free and open to the public.

On Friday, Sept. 8, a murder mystery dinner theater will be held at the State Library to raise funds for the Book Fair. The cost for the event is $50.

Details about Book Fair events will be available in upcoming issues of Insight. For more information, contact Bonnie Mathes at 217-558-2065 or bmatheis@ilsos.net.

PNG adds five new sites

Illinois public libraries in Freeport, Joliet, Kankakee, Richton Park and Sparta have been selected to serve as new hosts for Project Next Generation, Secretary of State Jesse White’s innovative mentoring program for junior high-age students at Illinois public libraries.

"I am delighted to welcome these public libraries into the growing Project Next Generation family," said Secretary White. "With the addition of these new sites, we now have programs operating in 25 public libraries throughout the state."

Program mentors teach students how to use state-of-the-art technology provided through a grant from the Illinois State Library. At each site, the number of students is limited to between 10 and 12 to maintain an optimum ratio of one mentor per three or four students. Though a statewide curriculum has been developed to maintain program consistency, individual sites are given flexibility to evolve based on individual student needs.

"Project Next Generation is doing what I hoped it would do," said Secretary White. "Kids are having fun and developing technological skills that will serve them well for the rest of their lives. Caring adult mentors are providing guidance and serving as positive role models for participants, setting them on the path to success. And our public libraries are proving to be the perfect environment for such interaction to take place."

The new sites join 20 other PNG programs operating at public libraries in Beardstown, Bensenville, Bloomington, Cahokia, Carbondale, Centralia, Champaign, Danville, Decatur, Des Plaines, Dixon, Elwood Park, Harrisburg, Elgin, Macomb, Bethany, Loves Park, Peoria, Quincy and Springfield.

Per capita grants awarded

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White awarded more than $15.5 million in FY2006 per capita grants to Illinois public and school libraries. Nearly $14.2 million was shared by 630 public libraries, allocated at a rate of $1.23 per resident. An additional 11 public libraries with low library tax bases received equalization aid grants to ensure a minimum level of funding for library services.

School library per capita grants totaling nearly $1.4 million were awarded to 716 school districts. The grants help provide library services to nearly 2 million students in more than 3,300 Illinois school libraries. The grants were allocated based on a $0.72 per student rate and are available to tax-supported public school districts that are members of one of Illinois’ regional library systems.

Illinois Digital Archives at a Glance

- The Illinois Digital Archives (IDA) has been updated and is now powered by CONTENTdm digital collection management software.
- The search engine is more powerful than the one used in the original version.
- Many full-text items have undergone optical character recognition, making them keyword searchable.

For more information or to register for the program, call TBBS at 800-665-5576, opt. 6, or visit www.cybendriveillinois.com.

Illinois Secretaries of State & State Librarians

JESSE WHITE • ILLINOIS SECRETARY OF STATE & STATE LIBRARIAN

ESSE WHITE • ILLINOIS SECRETARY OF STATE & STATE LIBRARIAN
Synergy participants selected

Thirty members of the Illinois library community have been selected for the 2006 Synergy: The Illinois Library Leadership Initiative. The first of three, three-day Synergy events will be March 28-30 at Starved Rock Lodge and Conference Center in Utica. The other two seminars will be held in Grafton and Lisle later this year.

Synergy is the statewide library community’s proactive movement to recruit and nurture future Illinois library leaders. The State Library and the Illinois Library Association are sponsors of the program.

2006 Synergy participants

- Mary G. Adamowski, Orland Park Public Library
- Bryan A. Blank, Elmhurst Public Library
- Susan A. Bochenski, Metropolitan Library System
- Loretta L. Broomfield, Free River Grove Memorial Library
- Carol Galvin, Columbia College Chicago Library
- Dawn J. Cassady, U of I Mortenson Center/International Library Programs
- Beth E. Clausen, Northwestern University Library
- Terrance L. Cottrell, University of St. Francis Library
- Luann DiGrose, Benedictine University Library
- Kenneth Craft, Free River Grove Memorial Library
- Kristine Kenney, Schaumburg Township District Library
- Catherine A. Lemmer, Galesburg Public Library
- Anna M. Hughes, Glen Carson Centennial Library
- Amanda D. McIlvain, Lincoln Trail Libraries System
- Stephanie A. McKee, Shocker Library
- Elaine Alice Moore, Paul V. Galvin Library, Illinois Institute of Technology
- Cindy Moriarity, Brookfield Public Library
- Jennifer Phillips-Rucker, Skokie Public Library
- Scott E. Ponstein, Decatur Public Library
- Carolyn R. Roys, Lake Park High School Dist. 106
- Ann M. Stroud, Illinois Prairie Public Library District
- Morgan Thomas, Carl Foundation Hospital Library, Li
- u1 College of Surgery
- Meredith Willett, Prairie Area Library System

More than 600 turn out for Illinois Library Day

More than 600 enthusiastic library advocates from across the state took part in Illinois Library Day festivities in Springfield on Wednesday, March 1. Many participants proclaimed the event the best in years, with twice as many attendees as in recent years.

The highlight of the day was a march from the new Lincoln Presidential Library & Museum to the Capitol Building for a rally. Marchers chanted slogans and displayed “I Love Libraries” umbrellas while walking behind a large “I Love Libraries” banner.

“Yo and I know that our libraries remain the best, most reliable source of information available to the citizens of this state,” said Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White as he addressed the crowd in front of the State Capitol. “Librarians are highly trained, caring and committed men and women. They provide the important personal and professional touch that no search engine can ever provide. Our libraries are the cornerstones of our communities. They enhance civic pride and enrich the lives of those who use them. We must keep our libraries strong to ensure a viable informational and educational resource now and into the future.”

In addition to Secretary White, other speakers included State Library Director Anne Craig; Keith Fiels, executive director, American Library Association; Richard Norton Smith, former executive director, Lincoln Presidential Library & Museum; Dianne Harmon, president, Illinois Library Association; Shirley May Byrne, president, Illinois Library System Directors Organization; Susan Chernoweth, president, Illinois Chapter of the Special Libraries Association; Leslie Forsman, president, Illinois School Library Media Association; and Mary Monroe, chair of the Consortium of Academic and Research Libraries in Illinois. Dennis Danowski, director of the Macomb Public Library, served as master of ceremonies.

Before and after the rally, participants visited with their local lawmakers at the Capitol. Participants found widespread support among their state senators and representatives for increased funding for libraries. Library Day organizers also arranged continuing education sessions for school librarians and library trustees throughout the day.

Thanks to everyone who made this year’s Illinois Library Day a success.